

OCTOBER 2024

Upcoming Exhibition: Where Have All The Pheasants Gone?

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Justin Stubblefield

Phone: (816) 379-6011

Email: info@englewoodarts.art

Date: October 17th, 2024 - January 17th, 2025

Englewood Arts Presents: *Where Have All The Pheasants Gone?

Englewood Arts, 10901 E Winner Rd, Independence, MO 64052, proudly announces an upcoming art exhibition titled, "Where Have All The Pheasants Gone?", featuring a new body of work by Missouri artist GK Callahan.

Englewood, [MO] — This immersive experience includes paintings, video, poetry, and installation, as well as family photographs. Additionally, throughout the three-month run, EA & Callahan will offer educational workshops and talks to enhance the overall experience.

Originating during Callahan's 2024 residency at Creative at Klondike in Augusta, MO, the work delves into the climate shift and its impact farming practices have on culture in the Midwest and our connection to rural America.

OCTOBER 2024

“Once-thriving fields, the main ecosystems of the Midwest, used to hold and comfort me annually. Our yearly pilgrimages to the family farm were tethered by tradition as much as a place. But over time, the land became a mono-crop fence post to fence post, the new landscape stripping tradition, leaving us only nostalgic memories of the past. The disappearance of wildlife and environmental changes have ripple effects—this loss of nature aids in reshaping our connection to rural America. I see this shift in our environment as not only a loss of nature but the seat we had at grandma's table.” — GK Callahan.

In this exhibition, Callahan helps viewers understand the disappearing landscapes as a reminder of our interconnectedness with nature. This loss is more than the sum of its parts; it's a culture silently being left behind. The timing of this exhibition is significant as it coincides with the start of pheasant hunting season in October.

Support for this exhibition was provided by...

Exhibition Details:

Exhibition Title: Where Have All The Pheasants Gone?

Opening Date: Friday, October 18th

Location: Englewood Arts, First Floor

Admission: Free and open to the public